Michael R Baye The International Law of Human Rights and the European Union: Survey of the. the economic protection of state sovereignty.HDFC Bank (HDFC) in collaboration with the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) has collaborated to launch the world's largest voluntary observation campaign targeting extreme weather events that is to be managed via HDFC Bank's climate portal Weather for India. The objective of the campaign is to reduce the geographical, temporal and spatial uncertainty associated with extreme weather events in order to ensure that weather and climate forecasts are used for more accurate, effective and timely decisions, thereby helping to safeguard lives, property and resources. WMO Director-General Petteri Taalas says, "Observations made by meteorologists and other scientists around the globe help improve current weather predictions and prepare for the future. The Climate Portal is a powerful new tool for the better use of weather information for meteorologists and their clients. But WMO alone cannot manage weather observations - it needs the support of partners. In this way, the World Meteorological Organisation and HDFC Bank are working together to enhance observation services at a large-scale level." S.B. Thapa, CEO, HDFC Bank, says, "We believe that collaboration with the world's leading climate scientists, meteorologists and climatologists will help provide the tools and technical know-how to improve forecasting and prediction capabilities. We hope that the new platform will transform the weather information used for making informed decisions that will change the lives of people in India and around the world." The World Meteorological Organization is an intergovernmental organisation of 190 member countries with its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. The WMO provides the global community with services and information relating to weather and climate. HDFC Bank's Climate Portal offers climate services to customers and the public such as: climate research, analyses and forecasts; providing the global community with historic and best quality weather information; and providing daily, weekly, monthly and seasonal climate forecasts. More than 20,000 sets of daily climate data are collected globally, providing weather stations that include humidity, temperature, pressure and wind speed along with data for precipitation, cloud cover, visibility, visibility range, sea-level pressure, wind direction and wind speed. HDFC Bank is a global financial services company with corporate headquarters in Mumbai and employee base of more than 108,000 in 120 countries. The company has 28 offices across the country. 0cc13bf012
