The blank and doped Si membranes were also spin-coated with photoresist and pre-baked for 60 s at 180°C in a vacuum desiccator to remove the residual atmospheric moisture. Subsequently, the as-spun membranes were repeatedly rinsed with toluene, IPA, and DI water under sonication for 10 min to remove the byproducts and extra polymer. After these multiple washing processes, the as-spun samples were placed in a vacuum oven (Vacuubox RV 5) at 80°C overnight. Finally, the membranes were dried with nitrogen. Epigastric and left hypochondrial tenderness were present. Abdominal ultrasound showed a 7.5 cm sized heterogeneous echogenic mass in the region of the left hepatic lobe laterally, filling the left renal and gonadal veins, extending anteriorly, and pushing the gastrohepatic ligament posteriorly. This was highly suggestive of a neoplastic lesion and the patient was taken up for exploratory laparotomy. On exploration, an 11 cm × 8 cm × 5 cm tumour lesion present in the dome of left liver, extending from and compressing the hepar and phrenicohepatic ligament, was excised ([Fig. 1]{#F1}{ref-type="fig"}). Hemorrhage was present owing to the size of the lesion with the use of electrocoagulation and the bleeding was stopped. The patient is free of pain and undergoing regular follow-up, 30 months after surgery. ![Excised 11 cm × 8 cm × 5 cm tumour lesion present in the dome of left liver]{IJMR-147-429-g001}{#F1} On histopathologic examination, the lesion was diagnosed as spindle cell sarcoma, showing elongated spindle cells, arranged in a wavy/interlacing pattern \[Fig. [2a]{#F2}{ref-type="fig"} and [2b]{#F2}{ref-type="fig"}\]. Sarcoma, rarely present in the liver, presents as a huge mass and needs to be differentiated from the other forms of metastatic sarcoma. The cause of sarcoma in the liver is unknown

The Cumbrians, managed by Slade, are third in League Two. Slade, 47, missed out on a place in Hodgson's 31-man Euro 2016 squad after the FA selectors decided to reward football development by not picking him. But the FA announced that Bradford, who won the Johnstone's Paint Trophy on Thursday, have been included in the 23-man party. Bradford are two places and one point behind League Two leaders Bristol City, who won the play-off semi-final 2-0 on aggregate against Yeovil on Saturday. Ties to be confirmed Slade's return, along with England hopefuls Joe Allen and Charlie Adam, and Peterborough United striker Gary Madine, who earned the call-up despite never having played for his country before, follows a number of young graduates such as Joe Gomez, Calum Chambers and Dele Alli into Hodgson's squad. But they are the only additions to the list of 30 players who were left out of Euro 2016 squad. "This is an opportunity for the player to push on and prove that he has achieved what we are looking for and reward our trust with a place on the plane in France," said Hodgson, who will name his squad on 5 May. "Russell's manager at Bradford, Phil Parkinson, must have known that he would be selected for the squad for the game against Switzerland and so had to be given an opportunity to hold down the fort for his national manager. "We still have another full week with the final positions to be confirmed on the evening of Friday, May 5 before the squad are named. "My job will be made easier if the players perform, not harder because they are missing important players from the group of 30." Squad: Goalkeepers: Hart (Bury), Price (Yeovil), Lowton (Burton); Defenders: Tadic (Bursaspor), Norris (Crawley), Roe (Sheffield United), Evans (Manchester United), Windass (Preston), Jones (Bristol City), Besic (Aston Villa), Baines (Blackburn
